Community Interest

Favorite stories from 2012:

- Mia's Miracle - A year ago, a little girl living in an orphanage in Ukraine had no idea a family in Utah was racing to save her from a tragic fate. Now their lives have all been blessed in ways no one could have imagined.
- Irish Dancers - English is the official language in Ireland, although some words or word usage might sound a little foreign to American ears.
- RSL Anthem - Heard at Rio Tinto for the first time this year was a stirring anthem, one part rallying cry, one part Irish pub tune. It's a kind of secret weapon that's an especially effective way of kicking up the passion its Real Salt Lake fans with a tip of the hat to RSL's home pitch.
- Lindsey's Home - A young woman is now living in her dream home thanks to her grandfather and the generous outpouring of homebuilders in southern Utah.
- Lucin Population: 1 - There are plenty of places in Utah where you can just get away from it all.
- Piano Prodigy - Heston's life was all laid out in front of him -- take over the family farm one day, do what his dad and granddad did, and one day turn it all over to his kids. But that's not what he has in mind.

JUNIOR WEATHER SPECIALISTS PROGRAM

The KSL Junior Weather Specialists (formerly Weather Labs) is a weather/science program for fourth graders. They are conducted at the Discovery Gateway Museum on Wednesday mornings (except the third Wednesday of each month). A limited number of on-site school visits are also made. Schools participating come from the public, private, charter, web-based and home school sectors.

During each session schoolchildren, their teachers, administrators, and parents go to Discovery Gateway, a Salt Lake City-based children's museum, to meet with one of KSL's meteorologists to learn about science, weather, and broadcasting. Each group and experiment is taped for future on-air use.

The KSL Junior Weather Specialists is also available on ksl.com. Within the site one can find information such as "ask the Meteorologist," weather folklore, weather games, weather experiments, weather safety, and weather facts. Also, students and parents can click on and see streaming video of previously aired segments.

MEET THE PRESS

KSL Television airs Meet the Press, a weekly news/interview program produced by NBC, Sunday mornings at 8:00 am. Each program is approximately one hour in length and is hosted by David Gregory. Meet the Press specializes in interviewing national leaders on issues of politics, economics, foreign policy, and other public affairs.

- October 7 Guests: Obama campaign senior adviser, Robert Gibbs; former Republican presidential candidate, Newt Gingrich; Democratic strategist, Hilary Rosen; Republican strategist, Mike Murphy; and NBC's chief White House correspondent and political director, Chuck Todd preview the vice presidential debate coming this week.
- Guest: former California governor, Arnold Schwarzenegger, talks politics and his personal failings.
- October 14 Guests: Virginia Republican Governor, Bob McDonnell; former Democratic Governor of Michigan, Jennifer Granholm; Atlanta Democratic Mayor, Kasim Reed; Republican strategist, Alex Castellanos; and NBC's Tom Brokaw discuss the debates in the closing weeks of the campaign including the economy, the looming fiscal crisis by year's end, and the debt fight. With the big entitlement programs center stage, they were the backdrop of a feisty debate between the VP candidates on Thursday.
- Guest: Stephen Colbert talks about politics, satire, and lots of laughs.
- October 21 Guests: Florida Senator, Marco Rubio; presidential senior adviser, David Axelrod; and Ohio Republican Senator, Rob Portman discuss what tomorrow's final showdown means for the final days?
- Our roundtable weighs in--from The New York Times, columnist Tom Friedman; White House correspondent, Helene Cooper; Republican strategist, Mike Murphy; and former White House press secretary for President Clinton, Dee Dee Myers.
- October 28 Guests: State Republican Governor, John Kasich; Wisconsin Republican Governor, Scott Walker; and Colorado Democratic Governor, John Hickenlooper discuss the critical effort to deliver key voting groups to the polls. We hear about it all from key figures on the ground in these states. Can Romney win the White House without it?
- Analysis from our roundtable--from MSNBC, Rachel Maddow; New York Times' columnist, David Brooks; Washington Post's columnist, E.J. Dionne; former CEO of Hewlett Packard, now vice chair of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, Carly Fiorina; and our political director and chief White House correspondent, Chuck Todd on what will tip the scales in this historically tight presidential race.
- November 4 Guests: White House senior adviser, David Plouffe; and majority leader of the House, Virginia Republican, Eric Cantor discuss what the federal government should do to get life back to normal in the storm zone. Should more attention be paid to a changing climate's impact on the severity of these storms?

Plus, the final sprint of the campaign. Can the president's Midwestern firewall hold against Mitt Romney's efforts to expand the battleground map?

Also, our new head-to-head numbers in our poll and a primer on each side's path to 270 from our political director Chuck Todd.

Our roundtable weighs in--from Democratic mayor of Newark, New Jersey, Cory Booker; host of MSNBC's Morning Joe, Joe Scarborough; Republican strategist, Mike Murphy; co-host of TODAY, Savannah Guthrie; and NBC News special correspondent, Tom Brokaw discuss what issues mattered most in the campaign, like jobs, with the new jobless numbers out just days before the vote; and what mattered the least, like Romney's religion and even foreign policy.

November 11 Guests: New York Democratic Senator, Chuck Schumer; and Oklahoma Republican Senator, Tom Coburn discuss where it all goes from here? Also, we check in with CNBC's Jim Cramer, to hear about the economic stakes should Washington fail to avert fiscal disaster by the end of the year.

Guests: Democratic Congressman, Joaquín Castro; Republican strategist, Steve Schmidt; presidential historian, Doris Kearns Goodwin; NBC's political director and chief White House correspondent, Chuck Todd; and The Washington Post's columnist, Bob Woodward discuss the future of the GOP after a stinging defeat for Romney and the Republicans. How will President Obama govern in a second term?

November 18 Guests: Chair of the Senate Intelligence Committee, California Senator, Dianne Feinstein; and Chair of the House Intelligence Committee, Michigan Congressman, Mike Rogers discuss Benghazi and the Petraeus affair.

Guests: Tea-Party backed Idaho congressman, Raul Labrador; New York Times' columnist, Tom Friedman; former White House Chief of Staff to President Clinton, John Podesta; Republican strategist, Mike Murphy; and NBC News chief foreign affairs correspondent, Andrea Mitchell talk about how to avoid the fiscal cliff, and the fall out and the future of the GOP?

November 25 Guests: Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Michigan Democrat, Carl Levin; and Chairman of the House Homeland Security Committee, New York Republican, Peter King discuss where America stands on the verge of a second Obama term in office including: the economy, the fiscal cliff talks, and the president's priorities in the next four years.

Analysis from our roundtable--The New York Times columnist, David Brooks; MSNBC's Reverend Al Sharpton; former CEO of Hewlett-Packard, Carly Fiorina; historian and film-maker, Ken Burns; NBC's chief foreign affairs correspondent, Andrea Mitchell; and New York Congressman, Gregory Meeks check-in on some of the hardest-hit victims of Hurricane Sandy and see how they offered thanks this weekend while surrounded by destruction.

- December 2 Guest: Treasury Secretary, Tim Geithner discusses if there will be a deal by the end of the year and what the consequences for the economy are if there isn't one?
- Guests: Tennessee Republican Senator, Bob Corker; and Missouri Democratic Senator, Claire McCaskill offer their views from Capitol Hill. Are Democrats as divided over cutting Medicare as Republicans are over tax increases?
- Our special economic roundtable weighs in--President of Americans for Tax Reform, Grover Norquist; Ranking Member of House Budget Committee, Maryland Democratic Rep. Chris Van Hollen; CNBC's "Mad Money" and "Squawk on the Street", Jim Cramer; and CNBC's "Closing Bell" and "Wall Street Journal Report", Maria Bartiromo discuss both sides of the battle over the nation's fiscal health, what they expect from the economy in a second Obama term, and their vision for an economic rebound.
- December 9 Guests: Congressman Kevin McCarthy and assistant Senate majority leader, Dick Durbin square off over taxes, entitlement cuts, and a deal by Christmas. What is standing in the way?
- Our political roundtable features: former Capitol Hill insiders, Newt Gingrich and Lawrence O'Donnell; Bloomberg White House Correspondent, Julianna Goldman; New York Times White House Correspondent, Helene Cooper; and Washington Post Associate Editor, Bob Woodward. They discuss the political endgame for Republicans and Democrats, who wins and who loses as this fight drags on, plus the future of the Republican Party for the 2016 campaign.
- December 16 Guest: New York City Mayor, Michael Bloomberg's exclusive interview on the latest on the investigation and the call for new gun restrictions.
- Guest: Connecticut Governor, Dannel Malloy's interview about the last 48 hours and what they have been like after the tragic shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary.
- Guests: California Senator, Dianne Feinstein; former secretary of Homeland Security, Tom Ridge; former secretary of Education, Bill Bennett; New York Times' Columnist, David Brooks; Sociologist, Michael Eric Dyson; the President of the American Federation of Teachers, Randi Weingarten; and NBC News Justice Correspondent, Pete Williams offer diverse views about the way forward.
- December 23 Guest: the CEO and executive vice president of the N.R.A., Wayne LaPierre's exclusive interview about gun control and the tragic shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary in Newtown, Connecticut.
- Guests: New York Senator, Chuck Schumer; and South Carolina Senator, Lindsey Graham give their reactions to Wayne LaPierre's interview saying that any attempt the president makes at gun control legislation is bound to fail because it won't work and it's just a bunch of old arguments.

Our roundtable--Utah Congressman, Jason Chaffetz; former Tennessee Democratic Congressman, Harold Ford Jr., NBC News political director and chief White House correspondent, Chuck Todd, and NBC News chief foreign affairs correspondent, Andrea Mitchell talk about the fiscal cliff and if we are going to get a deal.

December 30 Guests: NBC News political director and chief White House correspondent, Chuck Todd; NBC News special correspondent, Tom Brokaw; author of Thomas Jefferson: The Art of Power, Jon Meacham; columnist for the New York Times, David Brooks; and presidential historian, author of the Lincoln biography Team of Rivals, Doris Kearns Goodwin discuss the interview with President Obama on the way forward and his priorities for his second term. The president is setting a tone here with Republicans, putting them on notice that yes, taxes are going to go up, and that he's going to drive a pretty hard bargain on a lot of different issues rather than try to bring them into the fold. He doesn't feel like compromise is going to work at this point.

THE CHRIS MATTHEWS SHOW

KSL Television airs The Chris Matthews Show, a weekly news and political roundtable program taped in Washington, D.C. and produced by NBC News. Each 30 minute program is broadcast on Sunday mornings at 6:30 a.m. and is moderated by Chris Matthews. He is joined each week by a rotating group of four journalists. Either Andrea Mitchell or Chuck Todd, both of NBC News, will occasionally fill in for him.

October 7 Guests: ABC's Sam Donaldson, NBC's Andrea Mitchell, MSNBC's S.E. Cupp, and Time Magazine's Joe Klein discuss:

- Four weeks to go and the new jobs report gives the Obama campaign a much-needed assist after the debacle Wednesday night in Denver. The debate's closing statements told the tale. The president was down and Mitt Romney was up.

October 14 Guests: New York magazine's John Heilemann, The Christian Science Monitor's Liz Marlantes, The Washington Post's Nia-Malika Henderson, and the Newsweek and The Daily Beast's Andrew Sullivan discuss:

- Barack Obama has got Tuesday night to re-take command. Can he show himself the doer and make Mitt Romney just a would a, could a, should a challenger? And if he can, will he become the race's underdog?
- Joe Biden might have stopped the Romney train and set up the president for Tuesday. He certainly revved up the Democrats. Did Biden's arguments on Medicare and abortion rights also do some damage to the other side?
- President Clinton is out there selling the case for the guy he hopes will be another President Clinton's predecessor. He gave that great deal making speech at the DNC. Now, he's out there on the campaign trail doing what Obama didn't do last week, exposing Mitt Romney's hard right baggage.

October 21 Guests: The Washington Post's Bob Woodward, The BBC's Katty Kay, NBC's Kelly O'Donnell, and Time magazine's Joe Klein discuss:

- Right or Wrong? Is it Romney or the Republicans? What are we looking at these past few weeks--a failed political party or simply a failing candidate? If the GOP candidate loses, will it look like the conservative argument itself has been beaten? Will it's somebody in the Republican brand itself in the battles ahead?
- Everyone is saying it will all come down to the debates, but would no-drama Obama really give Mitt Romney an opening? Would he ever swing wild enough to let Romney turn this thing around? Or will he keep the bouts low-key and low risk?
- It's our 10th anniversary, for me and our intrepid band of journalists. Help us celebrate the time-capsule moments, our political sound bite hall of fame.

October 28 Guests: Time magazine's Joe Klein, the BBC's Katty Kay, CNBC's Kelly Evans, and the Washington Post's David Ignatius.

- Nine days of barnstorming ahead. One part of the perfect storm, Barack Obama's heroic push to get out to vote, and Mitt Romney's own excited troops.

- Both sides are resorting to PSYWAR, the Romney forces call charge, we're winning, join us now or be left behind. But President Obama and his people signal hold the line, if you don't vote, we could have Bush versus Gore all over again.
- On Friday, we get the last Jobs Report before the election. Last month, it gave the president a boost. Will the October number matter more?

November 4 Guests: New York magazine's John Heilemann, CNN's Gloria Borger, The Grio and MSNBC's Joy Reid, and The Huffington Post's Howard Fineman discuss:

- The question dominates the country to re-up a president, urging him to re-up his game to do more or reject him, bringing an alternative from the party, it rejected last time? So many questions: jobs, foreign policy, national security, gender issues, all wrapped up in one--to hold or to change?
- Suppose Romney had run as a moderate from the get-go, suppose Obama had face down his rival in that first debate the way he face down Hurricane Sandy.
- One candidate will suffer a personal and profound loss next Tuesday night--either the first African-American president--the man who feels the duty to so many others or the man who wanted so powerfully to redeem his father's own long ago failed presidential bid.

November 11 Guests: The Washington Post's Bob Woodward, The Washington Post's Kathleen Parker, The New York Times' Helene Cooper, and The Washington Post's David Ignatius discuss:

- The country makes history again, doubling down on hope and Barack Obama. What does he hope will give him and more important us a second term upgrade?
- Will the hard right in the House give thumbs down to the re-elected president? Will they risk the fiscal abyss to keep their ties to the Tea Party?
- Even Mitt Romney was echoing that cry to the anti-Obama crowd, pledging to take our country back. But that remembered country is buried two even three generations deep in the past. No matter how hard they want it, America's future just won't look like the early '50s.

November 18 Guests: AXS TV's Dan Rather, the BBC's Katty Kay, The New York Times' Jodi Kantor, and ABC's Sam Donaldson discuss:

- The CIA director should know the risks. Didn't he know the walls have ears and secrets have a sell-by date? Why did Petraeus betray us?
- Bill Clinton has rehabilitated himself since his own huge risk put us all through a political purgatory. And now apparent generals have us mired in scandal. It's not just the family that's hurt, it's the rest of us.
- Some proposals to avoid the fiscal cliff would raise the age for Social Security and/or Medicare, that may work for some but how about the men and women whose backs, legs and hearts just can't wait two more years to retire? Do you really want a 70-year-old flying the airplane?

November 25 Guests: Jon Meacham, author of the new biography Thomas Jefferson: The Art of Power; Harvard's Annette Gordon-Reed, author of The Hemingses of Monticello; The New York Times, and Jodi Kantor, author of The Obamas and Michael Beschloss author of Presidential Courage discuss:

- Where does Barack Obama rank now among our presidents? It's Lincoln first, then Washington, then F.D.R., and Jefferson. Where do presidential historians think Barack Obama may someday rank?
- How does President Obama look at Washington, Adams, and Jefferson? Does this thoroughly modern president even look at the founders for inspiration?
- Second terms are often beset by problems, even scandals and big foreign crisis often come during second terms. Will Barack Obama's next four years bring him the chance for greatness or for that?

December 2 Guests: Time magazine's Richard Stengel, the BBC's Katty Kay, CNN's Gloria Borger, and New York Magazine's John Heilemann discuss:

- The Republicans are sweating out the tax issue. They're fretting for a way to raise revenues knowing they can't be cast as die-hard defenders of the rich. But what about Democrats, are they willing to pull back from the precipice and is the president prodding them to do so?
- Suppose it is the Republicans who end up doing the right thing--hiking taxes on those at the top. What if the Democrats are the ones then refusing to budge thinking that victory in November lets them and their pressure groups play nasty in December?
- The Brits are going wild over a viral e-mail from a father so fed up with his slacker kids, those divorced and aimless adults who were once his children that he tells them to bugger off till they've done something to be proud of. He started a big debate and we're jumping in.

December 9 Guests: Politico's John Harris, NBC's Kelly O'Donnell, CNBC's Michelle Caruso-Cabrera, and The Washington Post's David Ignatius discuss:

- Why does President Obama need to call this big debt deal a victory? Raise the tax rate for the rich? That's at the top of the list. But besides this and getting a deal struck on time, what would really stuff the president's stocking, giving him a fresh positive start for his second term?
- What will it take to make everybody happy or everybody equally unhappy? A higher top tax rate, a cut in government spending, a good squeeze on Medicare and Medicaid, anything else?
- The Clintons, both of them, are global figures abroad, political superstars at home. To become president in four years, does she just have to wait? Would anyone stand up to challenge her for the prize? Could a hot new Republican give her trouble, even cause her not to run?

December 16 Guests: Mike Duffy, TIME; John Harris, Politico; Kelly O'Donnell, NBC; Helene Cooper, NY Times discuss:

- Will the deaths of 20 small children in their school house be a turning point in our history? Will President Obama go beyond what some call caution and demand new gun laws? Is the country ready for that? Could tighter gun control ever prevent such an act of violence?

- Like other mentally ill mass shooters, Adam Lanza had access to so much fire power that he could kill many and quickly.
- With two weeks to go, our experts give us the latest Washington inside story where things stand. Is there a deal on the Horizon?

December 23/30 No transcripts available.
